Job Position: _____

There are many elements that affect job performance. Each of these must be considered when making a hiring decision. The following format will help you to evaluate each candidate on an effective range of criteria.

Rate the Candidate on each of these elements by placing a checkmark in the appropriate box. Then complete the simple calculations to generate a Relative Composite Rating for the Candidate.

	nothing like job requires	less than job requires	adequate for what job requires	more than job requires	far more than job requires

FirstView Summary Chart

FirstView assesses six personality traits, a measure of cognitive ability, and a measure to determine if the candidate was answering the personality questions in a frank and open manner.

The candidate's score is marked in each test dimension. A candidate's score will fall into one of three possible classifications denoted by shade or color:

- Least Concern. Candidates score indicates good tendencies, well matched to the requirements of this job category.
- Some Concern. Candidates score indicates some low level potential for behavioral misalignment with the requirements of this job category.
- Most Concern. Candidates score indicates more potential for a material misalignment with the requirements of this job category.

NOTE: Social Desirability is an internal validity scale and indicates the degree to which the candidate may be manipulating his/her answers to the implicit requirements of the job category. Scores are either in the Least Concern area or are in the Most Concern category. The test results of candidates who score in the Most Concern category in the Social Desirability dimension should be viewed as potentially not accurate.

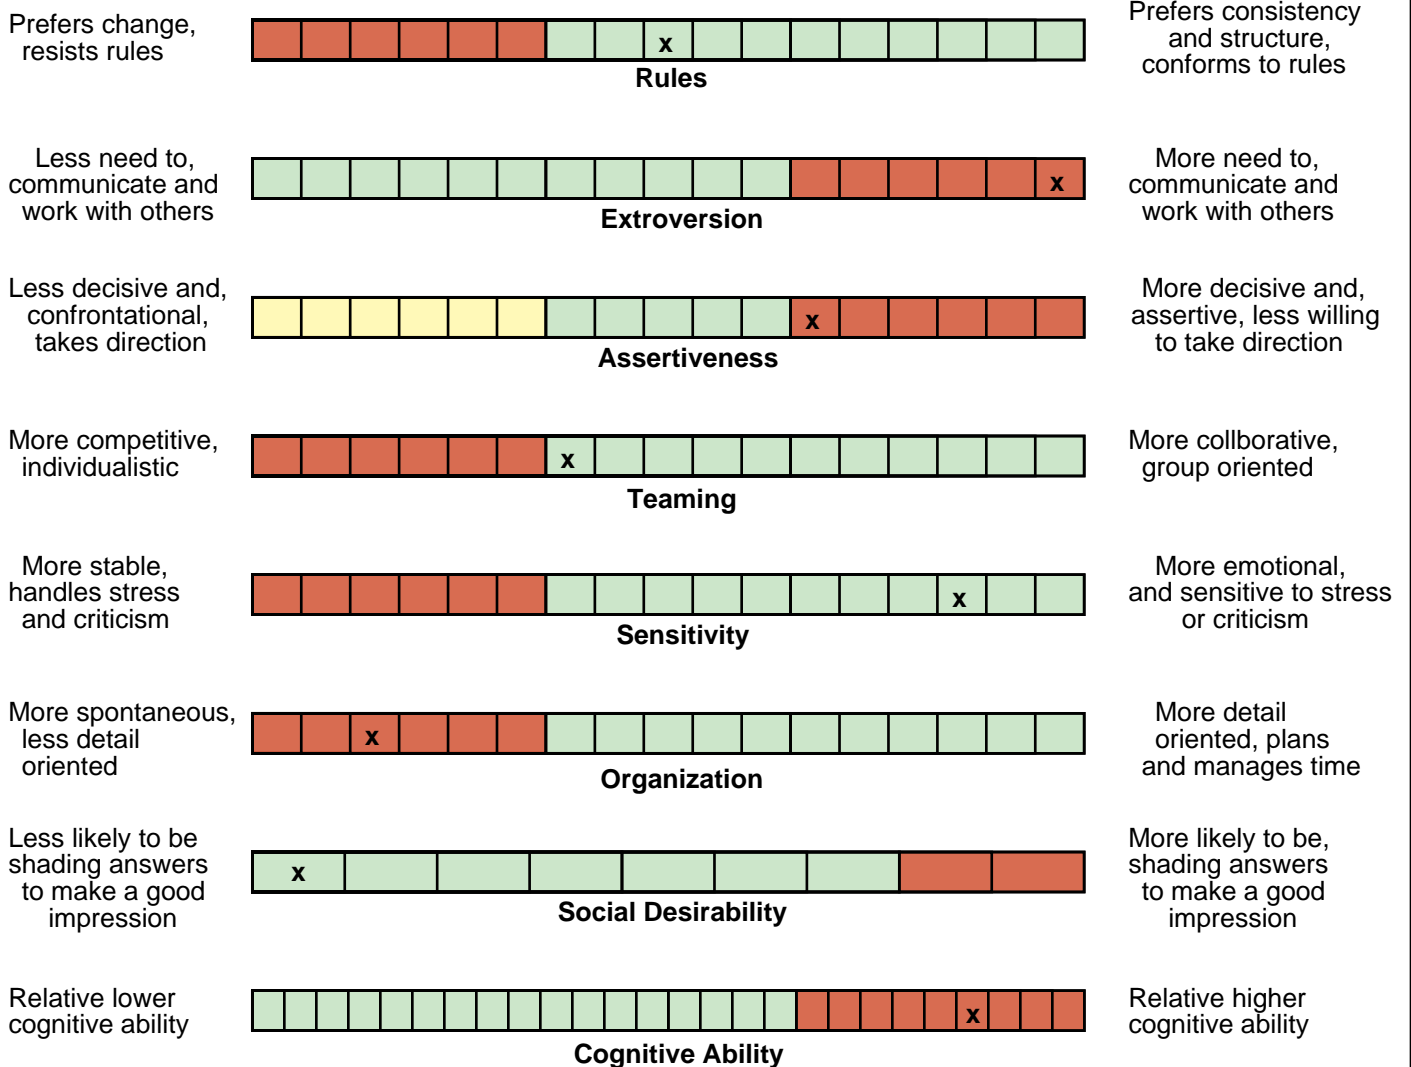

Applicant results at the bottom of the chart page show the number of dimensions a candidate scored in each of the 3 potential categories. From these results you have a comparative measure of job fit.

NOTE: Each job category will tend to have a different pattern for the level of concern for a specific personality trait or cognitive score. The behavioral requirements for job categories are different, and may also be subtly different from job to job within a category. FirstView results provide a good overview of job fit for a job category, but should be viewed with flexibility when considering the specific job and behavioral requirements of your position.

The FirstView information represents only one part of the factors that determine job performance. The FirstView information should only be used as a percentage of any hiring decision.

Production Report

Tony Michaels

8/12/2003

Cognitive:

- Learns more quickly and solves problems faster than average person
- Is in top third of the population in terms of reasoning speed
- Generally focuses more on long-term strategic production issues rather than on more immediate tasks
- May become bored with the routine of most Production positions

Rules:

- Once trained, tends to follow established production procedures unless there is a good reason to make an exception
- Can be challenged by extreme routine

Extroversion:

- Usually enjoys talking and working with other people
- Tends to find opportunities to socialize with others
- Needs to confirm understanding of critical instructions to ensure good listening

Assertiveness:

- Handles confrontation easily and tends to call out problems directly
- Can become confrontational and argumentative
- Needs to be in control, which can be frustrating in a production environment

Team:

- Looks for win-win situations and is a balanced team player
- Is discouraged by highly competitive situations

Sensitivity:

- Is more sensitive to stress than the average person and works best in a calm environment
- Is generally sensitive to quality problems, but may or may not voice them
- Can be distracted by stressful conditions, potentially causing safety concerns
- Needs to have clear deadlines to avoid overreactions and an exaggerated sense of urgency

Organization:

- Prefers to work in an environment that does not have tight schedules or detailed plans
- Work with detailed tasks should be double checked
- Is better suited to production processes that do not require close attention to detail

COGNITIVE:

Select the questions from this area that you feel are important to job performance:

1. People who learn very quickly tend to communicate very quickly also. Give me an example of how you have adapted your speed of communication to better communicate with someone else.
2. Once the challenge of learning a new job is past, the day-to-day routine can become boring to someone who learns quickly. Give me an example of what you have done in previous positions to challenge your abilities.
3. Give me an example from your experience in which you have used your ability to think quickly to your advantage.
4. Give me an example from your experience in which your ability to think quickly has been a problem.
5. Give me an example of how you make certain that other people understand your ideas.
6. Give me an example of strategic issues that you have dealt with in the past. Give me an example of tactical issues that you have dealt with in the past. Is strategic thinking or tactical thinking your strength?

RULES:

Select the questions from this area that you feel are important to job performance:

1. Give me an example of how you have dealt with a policy that you considered to be inefficient.
2. Finding a better way is not always productive. Give me an example of how you have made a mistake by trying to improve something.
3. Give me an example of how you have used "out of the box" thinking to solve a problem.
4. Give me an example of when you have worked in an unstructured job with few established procedures.

EXTROVERSION:

Select the questions from this area that you feel are important to job performance:

1. It is clear to see that you enjoy talking. Give me an example of how you have used that talent in your job.
2. Give me an example of how you have communicated your level of attention to others.
3. How can you tell when you are really listening to what someone is saying?
4. Give me an example of how your enthusiastic stories have caused problems for you in the past.
5. Give me an example of how you have made others feel special.

ASSERTIVENESS:

Select the questions from this area that you feel are important to job performance:

1. Give me an example of how you have dealt with a highly confrontational situation with another person.
2. When people ask for opinions, they sometimes want honest, direct answers and sometimes they want tactful, supporting answers. Give me an example of how you tell which type of answer is appropriate.
3. Some bosses can often be demanding. Give me an example of your most difficult experience with a demanding boss.
4. Give me an example of how you have had to refuse a co-worker's request.

TEAM:

Select the questions from this area that you feel are important to job performance:

1. Give me an example of how you have worked together with co-workers to deliver a higher level of productivity or quality than you could alone.
2. Give me an example of when you were really motivated to a high level of performance. What kind of recognition did you receive?
3. Sometimes it is necessary to choose between being right and getting what you want. Give me an example of how you have let someone be "right" even though you disagreed.
4. How do you know when to draw the line when people try to take advantage of your good nature? Give me an example.

SENSITIVITY:

This is a very challenging area! It is recommended that you ask all of the questions in this group for a thorough interview.

1. Give me an example of when a boss or co-worker has taken out his frustration on you. How did you feel? What did you do?
2. Give me an example of how you have dealt with a stressful situation.
3. Give me an example of how you have had to "trust" what a co-worker was telling you.
4. Give me an example of a situation in which you have had to work with new or untrained co-workers. What did you do?
